

MS03 VT09 FAQ Cramping Concerns v1 540p

[Music]

Some cramping is normal in every pregnancy, and in early pregnancy as your uterus is growing, it's normal to feel a little bit of growing pain type of cramps. Sometimes cramping can be a sign of something else going on like a possible miscarriage. What's not normal is when you have significant, painful cramping especially if it comes along with bleeding that's rhythmic and consistent. In that case, you really do need to contact your clinician so we can take a look at you.

[End of recording]